

Volunteer & Regional Meeting Attendee Conduct Policy

One of the key strengths of the ACS has been the enduring and varied contributions made by its thousands of dedicated volunteers.

Another unassailable strength of the ACS is its outstanding regional meetings program. ACS regional meetings are among the most respected scientific meetings in the world. ACS regional meetings offer scientific professionals a legitimate platform to present, publish, discuss, and exhibit the most exciting research discoveries and technologies in chemistry and its related disciplines. Furthermore, ACS regional meetings facilitate networking opportunities, career development and placement, and provide organizations with opportunities to exhibit products and services to targeted audiences.

The Society's Congressional Charter explicitly lists among its objectives "the improvement of the qualifications and usefulness of chemists through high standards of professional ethics, education and attainments...". The ACS expects its volunteers and regional meeting attendees to display the highest qualities of personal and professional integrity in all aspects of their ACS-related activities. Indeed, every chemical professional has obligations to the public, to volunteer and staff colleagues, and to science.

Accordingly, and to foster a positive environment built upon a foundation of trust, respect open communications, and ethical behavior, the SERMACS Executive Committee has issued this Conduct Policy. It applies to ACS Volunteers, i.e., it applies to individuals conducting the business and affairs of the ACS without compensation for that conduct. It also applies to attendees at ACS southeastern regional meetings. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees should at all times abide by this Conduct Policy.

Specifically:

1. Volunteers should understand and support ACS's vision and mission.
2. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees should contribute to a collegial, inclusive, positive, and respectful environment for their fellow volunteers and attendees, as well as for other stakeholders, including regional meeting vendors and ACS staff.
3. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees must avoid taking any inappropriate actions based on race, gender, age, religion, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, gender expression, gender identity, marital status, political affiliation, presence of disabilities, or educational background. They should show consistent respect to colleagues, regardless of the level of their formal education and whether they are from industry, government or academia, or other scientific and engineering disciplines.
4. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees should interact with others in a cooperative and respectful manner. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees should refrain from using insulting, harassing, or otherwise offensive language in their ACS interactions. Disruptive, harassing, or inappropriate behavior toward other volunteers, stakeholders, or staff is unacceptable. Personal boundaries set by others must be observed. Harassment of any kind, including but not limited to unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and other verbal or physical harassment will not be tolerated.
5. Volunteers must obey all applicable laws and regulations of relevant government authorities while acting on behalf of the ACS. Likewise, regional meeting attendees must obey all applicable laws and regulations of the relevant government authorities while attending ACS regional meetings. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees alike should also ensure that they comply with all applicable safety guidelines relating to public chemistry demonstrations.

6. Volunteers and regional meeting attendees should only use ACS's trademarks, insignia, name, logos, and other intellectual property in compliance with ACS regulations and directives as may be issued from time to time.
7. Violations of this Conduct Policy should be reported promptly to the Chair of SERMACS, Inc. In cases of alleged persistent and/or serious violations of this Conduct Policy, the SERMACS Executive Committee shall review the evidence and shall take such actions as may be appropriate, including but not limited to requiring volunteers to leave their volunteer position(s); precluding volunteers from serving SERMACS volunteer roles in the future; requiring regional meeting attendees to leave the meetings; and, precluding meeting attendees from attending future ACS southeastern regional meetings. SERMACS, Inc., through its Executive Committee, reserves the right to pursue additional measures as it may determine are appropriate.
